

The diagram illustrates a hierarchical tree structure with five levels of branching. The root node at the top left branches into two nodes. The left branch further divides into two, while the right branch divides into three. This pattern continues, with the leftmost branch of each level further subdividing into two, and the other branches subdividing into three. The structure represents a complex, multi-level hierarchy.

[illegible]